HISTORY

THE TUTWILER, YESTERDAY AND TODAY

June 15, 1914—June 29, 1968

The opening of the Tutwiler Hotel on June 15, 1914 marked a milestone in elegant living. Mr. Robert Jemison's realization of the need for a large hotel in Birmingham culminated in the construction of the finest hotel in the South. Mr. Jemison, along with Mr. George Crawford formed a company, and with the help of W. P. Harding and Major E. M. Tutwiler, financing was made possible. The architectural services of W. L. Welton and W. L. Stoddard were secured, and a magnificent Italian Renaissance building was designed. The hotel was leased to the United Hotels Company after completion. On June 15, 1914, the dream became a reality when the Tutwiler opened its doors to the public. From that day until this, the name "Tutwiler" has been synonymous with prestige, style and comfort. Two weeks from the opening, World War I erupted. The war's aftermath and prohibition took their toll and Birmingham went dry. The hotel's fancy saloon became a milk bar. In 1929, Lewis J. Dinkler took over United's lease. Exactly 53 years to the day, on June 15, 1967, James P. Paris, President and Chief Executive of Great Southern Investment Corporation announced the purchase of the Tutwiler. Great Southern invested more than a million dollars renovating, redecorating and restoring the hotel to its original aura of charm and elegance. On June 28, 1968, the Tutwiler again threw open her doors to the grandeur within.

FACILITIES & SERVICES

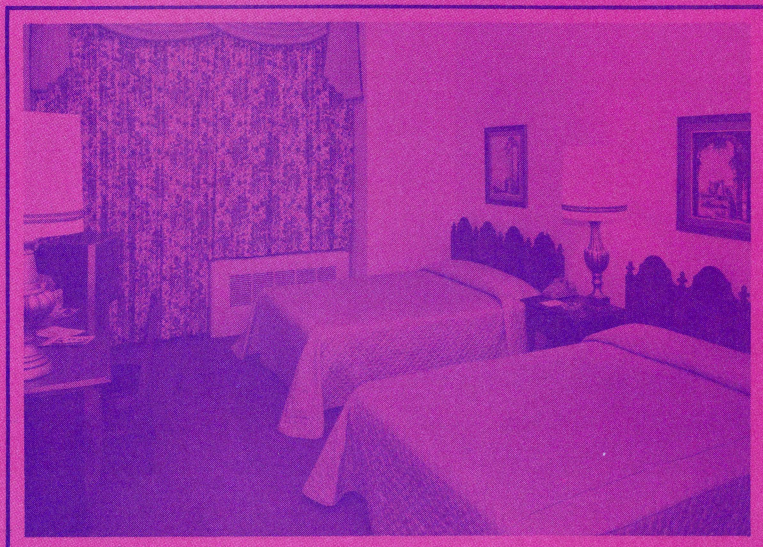

America's finest entertainment is featured nightly in the Regency Room where dinner is served from 6 p.m. Free parking is provided for all Regency Room guests. Cocktails are served from 4 p.m. and there is never a cover or admission charge. The Jewel Box Lounge provides delightful atmosphere from 10 a.m. Snacks to complete meals are served in the Tutwiler's charming Grill Room. Room service is available from 7 a.m. until 9 p.m.

The Tutwiler's 400 deluxe guest rooms and suites have recently been completely redecorated. In addition to the usual single and double bed accommodations, the Tutwiler offers a number of deluxe rooms and elegant 1 and 2 bedroom suites. An entire floor has been designed, the Executive Floor, and features:

All rooms contain television sets, with color sets in all superior rooms and suites.

Dry cleaning and laundry is done on the premises and one day service is provided. Twenty-four hour drug service is available on the main floor of the hotel. Free parking is provided for all hotel guests.

CONVENTION & MEETING FACILITIES

An experienced convention staff, quick service and outstanding facilities are among the characteristics which make the Tutwiler Alabama's finest convention and meeting headquarters. The hotel's extensive convention, meeting and banquet facilities consist of eight large rooms each of which accommodates up to 500 persons. Four of these rooms combine to form the Tutwiler's magnificent Grand Ball Room, which easily accommodates 1200 guests. An additional 24 rooms are available for meetings of 10 to 40 persons. Projectors, screens, black boards and all other necessary equipment is available for servicing any convention.

Mr. Joseph O. Lampe, general manager, president of the Tutwiler Hotel, and vice-president of Great Southern Corporation has been a hotel man for eighteen years.

Born in Syracuse, New York, he graduated from Syracuse University with a law degree and practiced four years. Lampe broke into hotel management with Highway House Hotels in Arizona, went to American Motor Hotels of Los Angeles as general manager, then to the Dinkler Corporation. Coming to the Tutwiler in June of 1967, from the position of assistant to the president of the Dinkler Corporation, Lampe moved his wife and year-old son from Los Angeles into the hotel in August, 1967.
